¹ The Payment Acceptance Contract and other services of DISH Pay are mandatory: our customers can choose which items in this section to offer as the cashless payment methods to their guests from I. Payment Acceptance Contract - Transaction Fees.

² If the Customer has entered into a separate pricing agreement with American Express directly, or into a separate pricing agreement regarding American Express with the respective DISH Pay payment service partner, the Customer may notify DISH of this circumstance. Upon confirmation by DISH, the separate pricing agreement(s) shall apply in lieu of the terms set forth in this Agreement.

³ Customers are responsible for any associated risks (e.g., chargeback) related to this payment method. DISH Pay is not liable for these risks.

⁴ To enable this payment method for DISH Pay, our customers must have a pre-existing direct contract with the related provider.

⁵ The fee is determined by the direct contract between the customer and the respective provider.
